windows are Gothic. The belfry is of wood, square with pointed finials and steeple bearing a cross.

The interior of the church has been redecorated, a balcony removed and a new alter installed. Grand Detour has become well known for its scenic beauty and unchanged village structures. It is frequented by tourists as well as artists and wealthy neighbors from summer homes nearby. St. Peter's Church is one of the outstanding buildings of this old town. References Rev. Amos Bosworth, Dixon, Ill. who furnished copy of the original specifications. Author.
